

Business traction and customer evidence

B1 · Slides 1, 3 and 8 · Company-confirmed results · Confidential customer records

Company confirmation and disclosure scope. Omelet confirms that the customer engagements and results reported here have been verified internally. Customer-level source records contain confidential information and are not publicly disclosed. The public package combines redacted company-prepared summaries, selected product demonstrations and aggregate technical results. “Company-confirmed” identifies Omelet as the attesting party; it is not an independent audit designation.

How to review the public evidence

Use the customer pages for dated commercial-document summaries and the product page for visible software interfaces and workflows. The customer originals remain restricted; the supplied summaries are clearly identified rather than presented as original scans.
